BIOGRAPHY

Anel Roach is an associate at Alcogal with a practice focused on litigation and arbitration. He has developed significant experience handling complex disputes, advising and representing clients in judicial and arbitral proceedings.

He graduated with a Law and Political Science degree from the University of Panama in 2003 and was admitted to the National Bar Association of Panama that same year. He began his career at the firm as a legal assistant (2006–2009) and has been part of Alcogal as an associate since 2010.

Over the course of his career, Anel has built strong expertise in managing complex cases, combining a thorough understanding of judicial procedures with a practical and client-oriented approach. His work is characterized by efficiency, strategic thinking, and a focus on achieving effective outcomes for his clients.
